President's Corner:

Hiring vs. Outsourcing

Coming together is a beginning. Keeping together is progress. Working together is success.

-Henry Ford

Recently, we have seen a spike in workload. In response to this increase, the question arises, "When should a company hire and when should a company outsource?" If the workload requires a commitment beyond a short time frame, creating a long term relationship and asset in the company is necessary and hiring is recommended. I also always recommend hiring long term employees based on personal recommendations versus over the internet or job seeking outlets. If the work can be managed within a specific time frame, outsourcing may be appropriate.
